

The Certificate of Sexological Bodywork in Australia

The World's Leading Facilitator Training for Somatic Sex Educators

The Certificate in Sexological Bodywork is a professional training for somatic sex educators, that also offers a profound learning experience for people interested in their own erotic development.

Certified Sexological Bodyworkers teach people the skills they need to learn more about their bodies, sex and sexuality, or work through sexual issues or concerns. People come out of the training with a clear structure for conducting sessions for individuals, couples, and groups, as well as fundamental skills in somatic sexology and a broad understanding of the knowledge underpinning effective practice.

Course Dates for 2017: April 29 to October 15

Module One Online Group Study: April 29 to June 24

Module Two Embodiment Intensive: June 26 to July 8

Module Three Supervised Sessions: July 15 to October 15

“The single most empowering and integrative experience I’ve ever had both for my professional and personal practice.”

“This is the training if you’re working with sexuality. The combination of personal and professional learning with the best teaching in the field is essential. I cannot recommend it enough.”

The Certificate in Sexological Bodywork program trains and certifies somatic sex educators, providing direct experiential learning opportunities in how to empower clients with erotic embodiment skills.

The course prepares practitioners to teach somatic sex education to individuals, couples and groups, making use of online learning, phone conferences, embodied research assignments, video demonstrations, communal learning, and supervised practicum, to provide an effective balance of theory and practice.

“It is well structured, well timed. I liked the mixture of learning experiences and the emphasis on anatomy.”

“It’s very well organized and you start at your own level of knowledge and that’s completely valued and supported.”

The Institute of Somatic Sexology welcomes diversity in sexual preference, gender, age and physical ability.
